Staged a coup. Backed by an army of insurgents, he stormed the ceremony and wiped out the North and South political leaders in a shower of gunfire. Without hesitation, he even snuffed the life of his own father.

The new ruler expelled all foreign embassy personnel and aid workers. The country "went dark" as the emerging dictator Choi Song cut off all communication with the outside world. Diplomatic overtures failed. Song barred entry to foreign press and weapons inspectors. Eventually the world's headlines turned to other crises. But rumors ran through the network of mercenaries, and each one hinted the worst. Then the worst came.

When the Royal Australian Navy showed up to rescue the crew of a North Korean freighter floundering in a storm, they discovered the sailors making a hasty effort to scuttle the ship. Their suspicions aroused, the Aussie sailors searched the boat and found nuclear weapons in the cargo bay, bound for an Indonesian company known as a front for terrorists. The undeniable link between General Song, nuclear weapons, and terrorists sent shock waves through the Allied Nations. Within hours of the discovery, Chinese intelligence released a report revealing that North Korea's missile capability was much more advanced than suspected—the North Koreans now had intercontinental missiles powerful enough to hit targets on all seven continents.
An Allied Nations-initiated Task Force was hastily formed, consisting of troops from around the globe. They invaded North Korea, smashed through a division of North Korean regulars and captured the launch sites in Yongbyon. But their victory was short-lived. A.N. weapons inspectors found documents at the sites revealing that North Korea was building 30 nuclear warheads at another—still unknown—launch site. Even worse, the evidence made it clear that the missiles would be ready to launch in just three weeks. The distant threat of an enemy that could end my days from across the world was much worse.

The A.N. forces now had a new, urgent agenda: find and capture Song before those missiles were launch-ready and the General was at the helm of a new nuclear superpower. After a week or two of fruitless searching, the A.N. press conferences took on an air of desperation. They distributed a “most wanted” list in the form of a “Deck of 52” playing cards. Song, of course, was the Ace of Spades. His top military and scientific advisors filled out the rest of the deck, along with a smattering of criminals that he’d hired to help out. An A.N. spokesman appeared on Global Satellite Reporting Network (GSRN) and announced an “open bounty” on General Song. The price? One hundred million dollars.

Fiona Taylor, the Executive Operations technical officer, called and gave the situation report. That was just hours ago. And now here you are on a cargo plane headed for the Demilitarized Zone, about to catch your last bit of shuteye before making a drop into the most dangerous place on Earth...

[1] SATELLITE NAVIGATION SYSTEM RADIAR:
Shows a map of your immediate surroundings. The map rotates depending on the direction you are facing. Shaded red areas are restricted — the allies will terminate anyone or anything that strays into a restricted area. When on a contract, yellow blips on the map show the location of your current objective[s]. Teal dots indicate locations for bonus objectives.

Between contracts, flags show the location of the various faction HQs. Challenges are marked with $. At all times faction units are shown in red if they are hostile to you, blue if they are friendly, or gray if they are neutral. Air units are shown as dots. In a helicopter, ground-to-air units are shown as triangles. Jammers are shown as red Xs. Finally, members of the Deck of 52 appear on the SNS Radar when you discover them. They are marked with the symbol of their "suit" (clubs, diamonds, hearts or spades).

[2] PRIMARY WEAPON: An icon indicates what type of weapon you have equipped, along with ammo remaining in the clip/total remaining ammo.

[3] ACTION MESSAGE: A message appears here explaining what action can be taken with the button, if one is available.

[4] HEALTH/ARMOR: The bar and number represent how much health (on foot) or armor (in a vehicle) is remaining.

[5] GRENADES/DISGUISE INDICATOR: When on foot the icon represents what type of grenade (frag or flash) is equipped, along with how many are remaining. When in a vehicle, a faction flag appears here, indicating which faction you're disguised as. If you break disguise, the faction flag will disappear and a text message will indicate that disguise was lost.

[6] DAMAGE INDICATOR: If you're taking damage, this shows what direction the damage is coming from.

[7] EMAIL NOTIFICATION: This symbol appears whenever a new email message comes in. Access your emails through the PDA [press the SELECT button].

[8] SUPPORT ITEMS: Press UP or DOWN on the directional buttons to display and scroll through the support items. The cost of each item is displayed next to the symbol. Press the RI button to activate a selected support item.

[9] ACCOUNT BALANCE: Appears automatically whenever you earn, spend or lose money. To quickly check your account balance, activate the support menu.

[10] FACTION GAUGES: The appropriate faction gauge appears briefly whenever a faction standings change. You can check your faction standings at any time through the PDA [press the SELECT button].

THE PDA

ExOps issues all field agents a military spec ruggedized PDA. It's your source for all vital information. Press the SELECT button to access the PDA, then use the LI button and the RI button to switch to the different modes.

MAP: Provides a map of the area. The flashing green arrow shows your current location and heading. Primary and secondary objectives, faction HQ flags, and Deck of 52 members are all shown on the PDA map. Use the directional buttons to scroll the map, zoom in and switch current focus. Press the Δ button to zoom back out, or close the PDA.

EMAIL: Displays any emails received. Check here for messages describing requirements and rewards for contracts accepted. Sometimes additional emails are sent during a contract. Always check the DECK OF 52 folder after completing a contract — a lead on a Deck of 52 member is often part of the contract payment. Finally, check the HELP folder if you forget anything.

SHOP: Visit the Merchant of Menace website. Once you've proved your worth to the Russian Mafia, this is where you can buy weapons, air strikes, supplies, and vehicles. If you get in good with a faction, you may receive a discount on supplies they offer. If you get into bad standing with the Russians and they stop selling you goodies, you may be able to persuade them with a "donation." Hint: press right on the directional button to quickly access the shop.

STATUS: Here you can check your status for the following:

DECK OF 52: Displays your progress towards verifying the key players in the conflict. A card will be marked with "jail bars" to indicate capture, or an X if they have been killed. Press the X button to view detailed information on any information on any Deck of 52 member. If you have received an intel email on the selected card, press the X button again to read it. The Intel bar on the left fills up as you capture cards.
higher the card, the more intel you receive. When you’ve collected enough intel, the Ace card contract becomes available.

BOUNTIES: The Allied invasion has thrown the region into chaos, and looting abounds. An attentive mercenary can find valuable National Treasures and dangerous Weapons of Mass Destruction. Collecting these yields an immediate cash bounty and faction mood reward. Collect enough and you might unlock additional shops, cash bonuses, and...? The South Koreans have deployed listening posts throughout the region. Destroying these makes the Chinese very happy. They’re certain to reward you if you destroy enough of them, so keep your eyes open. Finally, the South Koreans aren’t keen on the giant monuments to General Song that are a feature of nearly every town square.

CHALLENGES: Check here to see your records in the various Challenges.

FACTIONS: Displays your current standing with each faction.

--- EXOPS PERSONNEL ---

THE MERCs

Each merc has a combat specialty that provides a unique advantage on the battlefield. They also each know a language spoken by one of the factions, which may reveal information otherwise left obscure. Consider your play style when you decide which one to take into combat.

Name: Chris Jacobs
Nationality: American
Languages: English/Korean
ExOps: 5 Years

His mother is a Korean interpreter, and his father was a U.S. Army colonel. His mother taught him to speak Korean while his father gave him invaluable advice on military tactics. He served as part of the Army’s Combat Applications Group for seven years, before realizing that his skills were highly bankable. So he joined ExOps. No one can withstand as much punishment as him.

Name: Jennifer Mui
Nationality: British
Languages: English/Chinese
ExOps: 7 Years

Jennifer is an ex-member of MIG. She is great at avoiding detection, using her training and natural abilities to sneak into places where other soldiers would stick out like a sore thumb.

Name: Mattias Nilsson
Nationality: Swedish
Languages: English/Russian
ExOps: 1 Year

Nilsson may have experience in the past, but as far as the other mercs are concerned he’s a rookie. Until you run with ExOps for a few years, you haven’t seen real combat. However, in this short time, he’s proven to move faster than anyone on the battlefield, and a fast merc is a merc who comes home in one piece.

Name: Fiona Taylor
Nationality: Australian
Languages: English
ExOps: 1 Year

Fiona is the ExOps technical officer assigned to this conflict. She’s your point of contact to the outside world, and she’s got the raw feeds from a hundred satellites and hacked communications channels at her fingertips. She is an experienced agent runner, and she’s known to put even the toughest mercenaries in their place. Fiona came out of the Royal Australian Navy as a Lieutenant, specializing in submarine electronics warfare. Then she became an operative for the ASIS (Australian Secret Intelligence Service) and only recently gave up her post in the field to join the private industry.

MISSION INFO

PLAYING THE GAME
Opportunities to earn $100,000,000 don’t come along every day, but you’re going to earn every penny of it. That’s the price on General Song’s head – the problem is that no one knows where he is. The A.N. can’t find him – they have to play by too many rules. But a merc exists in a gray area, and can do whatever it takes to get to Song.

A dedicated merc could probably find most of the Deck just by searching, but the smartest way to do it is to work with the factions. They’ll be more than willing to trade what they know about the Deck of 52 for the services a mercenary can offer. In fact, the only way to the higher-level Deck members is through the factions, and the only way to the Aces is through the Allies. Verify (capture or kill) enough of the Deck, and you’ll get a shot at the Ace.

Work with the factions to earn money, get leads on the Deck of 52, and open up new supplies for the Russian black market website – the “Merchant of Menace.” Remember – sometimes you have to spend money to make money, and the Merchant offers some powerful toys. If a contract is kicking your ass, maybe the Merchant of Menace can help you. Having said that, a good merc is a master of field acquisition. With so many factions in the field, it’s amazing what you can “borrow.” A merc can save a lot of money that way...

CONTRACTS
Contracts are the bread-and-butter of any professional merc. Check your SNS radar or PDA map for faction flag icons that indicate the locations of the factions, and pay them a visit. Talk to the guard to enter. Once you’re inside, listen to the faction leader explain the details. Speak to the faction representative to accept the contract.

During a contract you can’t save the game, so you’ll have to cancel or complete the contract if you want to save your progress. And you can only take on one contract at a time. Once you’ve delivered your end of a deal, you’ll see how much money you made (including bonus payments, if any). Completing contracts also improves your standing with a faction, and unlocks items in the Merchant of Menace.

SAVING THE GAME
You can save anywhere, any time, as long as you’re not on a contract. Pause the game and select the Save Game option, then choose a slot to save to. Make sure a memory card (8MB) (for PlayStation2) is inserted into MEMORY CARD slot 1. Note: at least 590KB of free space is required to save all data.

FACTIONS
While on the hunt for the Ace of Spades, you will be able to run contracts for several different and often opposing factions. You’ll have to consider the consequences of taking a contract that goes against the desires of a faction, because they may stop offering their goodies, or even become openly hostile. Your actions outside of contracts can also affect standing with a faction. You can get away with killing a faction soldier or destroying property if other faction members aren’t present, but if there are witnesses, your standing with that faction will be affected. If you get into bad standing with a faction, you may be able to turn things around by making a friendly contribution to the bouncer outside the headquarters. Here is a description of each faction:

ALLIED NATIONS TASK FORCE
The A.N. Task Force has one purpose: remove General Song from power and neutralize the threat of his nuclear weapons. It operates as a military organization controlled by a committee. This has led to indecision and slow response to threats, and that’s why some in their ranks call companies like EoOps. The A.N. has a lot of firepower at its disposal, but it’s been spread thin by North Korea’s surprise offensive. Most important to you, they pay the bounty for each member of the Deck of 52.

A.N. Leader: Colonel Samuel Garrett
Garrett somehow maintains a cool head despite the mess that he’s in charge of. He views mercenaries as a necessary evil; if he had his way, he’d have the Deck dead or captured inside of 30 days, but it wouldn’t be pretty. And he has to keep things pretty. He doesn’t care which faction wins in the end, so long as the Deck is eliminated.

CHINA
While technically a part of the A.N. Task Force, China has also sent her own army across the border into North Korea, operating autonomously. The Chinese want to absorb North Korea after General Song is removed from power. They can provide armored vehicles and powerful (but imprecise) artillery and air strikes. That is, if you remain on their good side.

Chinese Leader: Colonel Peng
Peng is utterly cold and professional. He is a stoic party member; he also recognizes the weaknesses of his own government. He views mercenaries as he does any foreign agent—useful if controlled, but not to be trusted.
RUSSIAN MAFIA

The Russian Mafia seeks to dominate the illicit markets of North Korea. It doesn't matter to them who is in power, as long as the Russian criminal network is allowed to operate. The Mafia's goals put them in opposition to all other groups. They avoid direct military conflict and have very little military presence in North Korea. They control the black market, so they can provide supplies if you can get in good with them. They also maintain illicit back-channel communications with other factions, which allows you to buy support options from other factions through your criminal connections.

Mafia Leader: Sergei Voronov

Voronov is a young Russian punk, a post-glasmast thug, looking to make a name for himself apart from the established godfathers. His father is a powerful ex-KGB crime lord from Moscow. He is desperate to prove he's smarter, tougher, and better than everybody else out there.

SOUTH KOREAN UNION

The South Korean Union is a military organization under heavy influence of the CIA. They want peace and reunification, with the goal of installing a Western-friendly government. This brings them into opposition with China and to a lesser extent the Russian Mafia. They rely on air support arranged by the CIA. The Union can provide you with stealthy and precise air strikes.

SK Union Leader: Special Agent Mitchell Buford

The South Korean Union's leader is actually an American. Buford is a burnt out CIA agent who has been working in the field for way too long. He's determined to "get it right" this time and establish a strong pro-American democracy in a unified Korea. He sees Korea as the gateway to bringing democracy to China, and he still harbors an old-fashioned hatred of Communism and Red China. He thinks of a merc as "one of the good guys" and is happy to share what Western comforts he has.

NORTH KOREA

Under the grip of General Song, North Korea is trying to maintain its own stability and to simultaneously conquer South Korea in order to unite the Korean peninsula once again. Ultimately the goal is to use nuclear capability to become a world player. The Deck of 52 identifies key leaders in the North Korean faction.

NK Leader: General Choi Song

General Song was always brash and saw force as the solution to everything, but his father never knew just how deep his son's lust for power had taken root. General Song is not only a brilliant military tactician, but also clever at hiding his true intentions, making him an influential dictator. However, despite his careful planning, there is one factor he didn't consider: a warrior for hire with the determination and skill to undermine his leadership, one Card at a time.

GLOSSARY OF TERMS

ACTION HIJACKING: You can hijack hostile vehicles mid-attack and turn the tables on your enemies. Press the △ button at the right time to action hijack a vehicle. Remember:
1) Ground vehicles with turrets cannot be hijacked until the gunner is killed.
2) Helicopters can only be hijacked when they are close enough for you to jump up and grab them.

ALARMS: Enemy soldiers will often try to summon reinforcements by triggering an alarm. If you can prevent them from doing so, you'll usually save yourself some trouble.

ALLIED NASH: Mobile Army Surgical Hospital. The A.N. maintain a field hospital in each province. If you take too much punishment, you'll be medevaced here. Charges apply.

AMMO: To refill your ammo, run over a weapon of similar type or find an ammo pickup. Most supply crates in the Merchant of Menace include ammo pickups.

- Most Mafia contracts have bonus conditions that unlock extra — and very desirable — shop items.
- Important to collect bonuses. Be sure to complete bonus objectives before completing the primary objective! You won't get another chance.
- There's plenty of other bonuses to be earned. Keep your eyes open, and try to make every one happy.

BOUNTY: The various factions have a standing bounty on various items:

- Weapons of Mass Destruction: Song's regime was running multiple WMD programs. Blueprints for all sorts of nasty stuff are all over the place. The South Koreans are always interested in new ideas, so collect these on their behalf and they'll make it worth yourwhile.
- South Korean Listening Posts: The South Koreans have placed these not-too-clever surveillance devices wherever they think they'll overhear an interesting conversation. The Chinese will reward you handsomely for destroying them. Destroy enough of them, and there might be a special reward.
- Monuments to the "Great Leader": Like many dictators, Song had a thing for giant monuments to his own greatness. The South Koreans really hate that sort of thing, so getting rid of these monstrosities will make them very pleased with you.
- The Russian Mafia are always on the lookout for vehicles for their black market activities. See Chopshop.

BRIBE: If a faction becomes Hostile to you, you can buy your way out of trouble with a bribe. To bribe a faction, go to the Faction HQ and speak to the guard.

CHEATS: A real mercenary would never cheat, would they?

CHOPSHOP: The Russian Mafia run a chopshop where they will buy any vehicle you bring them. It’s located near the Russian Mafia HQ in each province. It’s a great way to earn cash, and to make the Russians happy.

CIVILIAN: North Korean civilians are non-combatants, and are caught in the crossfire of the invasion. See “Collateral Damage.”

COLLATERAL DAMAGE: Killing civilians is against Executive Operations policy. It’s ethically wrong and costs the company a great deal of money to counteract the negative PR generated. ExOps deducts these costs from your account in real time. See also “Press.”

CONTACT: Working with the factions involves performing a contract for them. To accept a contact:
(1) Go to the Faction HQ. Faction HQs are marked with flags on your SNS radar.
(2) Talk to the guard to enter the HQ. You can’t enter if the faction is Hostile to you.
(3) If you want to accept the contract, talk to the faction representative.
(4) If you want to decline, just walk out the way you came.

CRATES: Be on the lookout for supply crates. They contain all sorts of useful toys, and can be broken open with a Melee Bosh.

CROUCH: Press the L3 button to crouch. Movement speed is greatly reduced, but weapon effectiveness is increased. You’ll automatically break out of crouch as soon as you run.

DECK OF 52: The Deck of 52 is the A.N. “most wanted” list in the form of a deck of playing cards, with Song as the Ace of Spades. Each member of the Deck of 52 has a bounty attached. You can check the status of the Deck of 52 at any time in the PDA.

(3) Choose a nice, flat area for the helicopter to land. When the helicopter arrives, pick up the subdued captive and load him/her into the helicopter. You can check how much Intel you’ve accumulated by checking the Intel bar in the Deck of 52 status screen (in the PDA). Whenever you gain Intel, the PDA defaults to Deck of 52 status next time you open it, to show you how much you have, and how much you need to unlock the Ace.

MERCHANT OF MERCY: The Russian Mafia runs the black market in North Korea. Preferred clients are granted the Merchant of Mercy seat in the official Mavora. See Allied MASH for more detail.

PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF CHINA: See China.

PICKUPS: You will encounter various pickups on your travels:
- Health: restore your health to 100%.
- Ammo: refill all equipped weapons.
- Grenades: refill frag/stun grenades.
- CA: a single black of CA.
- Vehicle Repair: repairs vehicle armor.
- Vehicle Ammo: refills vehicle ammo.

PRESS: GSWS reporters are embedded with the Allies. It would be very unwise to allow a member of the press to come to harm. See “Colateral Damage.”

RADAR: See “SNS.”

RADIATION: Irradiated areas have an unhealthful glow. Only an armored vehicle [e.g., a tank] can protect you from the harmful effects of radiation.

RESTRICTED AREA: The A.N. fly combat sorties throughout North Korea. They treat any encroachment into a Restricted Area as a hostile act, and respond accordingly. Restricted areas are normally marked with a red ring.

SNOOP: See “Merchant of Mercy.”

SNIPER RIFLE: Sniper rifles allow you to zoom in on your target. Press the R3 button to zoom in, and press the R3 button again to exit zoom.

SNS: Satellite Navigation System. Fiona provides you with a real-time satellite map of your immediate surroundings. See the “Game Screen” for more detail, page 8.

SUPPORT: Support is a general term for vehicles, weapons, supplies, and air support that can deliver to your location. All support is accessed via a common interface.

- Vehicle Repair: repairs vehicle armor.
- Vehicle Ammo: refills vehicle ammo.

TAKEDOWN: Press the button to subdue a stunned opponent with a takedown. Take-downs are a common feature in non-lethal weapons. See “Verification.”

TRESPASSING: Some areas of the map have been marked as restricted areas. These areas are marked blue on your SNS. You will be warned when you enter a restricted area, and you should heed the warning: if soldier soldiers sight you, they will want to engage you. If they reach you, they will want to engage you. They may be in a hostile area and will only engage if they think you are a threat.

VEHICLE DISGUISE: The basic rule is “you are what you drive.” Provided no-one sees you get in, and you don’t do anything crazy, people notice only your vehicle’s faction, and treat you accordingly. That can be good or bad. Watch out for officers! They have an eye for detail, and see straight through disguise, alerting others.

VERIFICATION: “Verify” means “provide proof of capture/death to the A.N.” The A.N. will only pay a bounty on a Deck of 52 member when they can verify the capture/death. Note that the A.N. pay only half bounty for a kill. Capturing is the by far the more lucrative option.

Non-lethal Verification (half payment):
- (1) Maneuver the target using a Melee Bash or a Stun Grenade.
- (2) Subdue the target with a Takedown.
- (3) The “Call for Extraction” support item will be added to your support menu.
- (4) Use the support menu to call in an A.N. Extraction Helicopter. Try to pick a nice, flat area for the helicopter to land.
- (5) When the helicopter arrives, pick up the subdued captive and load him/her into the helicopter.

Lethal verification (full payment):
- (1) Apply lethal force to the target.
- (2) Approach the target and take a digital photograph.
- (3) Fiona will transmit the photo to the A.N. for verification.

WEAPONS: You can carry two weapons at any one time. To pick up a weapon dropped by an enemy, move over to it and press the button. Pick up the weapon.

WING: Most helicopters have a winch. Here’s how to use it.
- (1) Press the DOWN directional button to lower the winch.
- (2) The winch will attach automatically to almost anything movable. Try to get the clamp nice and close.
- (3) Press the button to lift as normal. When you’re carrying something heavy, you may lose altitude as you fly.
- (4) To drop an item, press the UP directional button.
- (5) To retract the winch, press the UP directional button (with no item attached).
- (6) Note that small helicopters may not be able to lift heavy items.
Here are a few of the vehicles and weapons at your disposal.

Any such claim or controversy shall be arbitrated solely on an individual basis and shall not be consolidated with a claim of any other party. The arbitrator may not change the terms of this Agreement. The arbitrator may award injunctive or other equitable relief to enforce the terms hereof provided, however, that no injunctive or other relief may be awarded that would enjoin or impede LucasArts' rights or ability to distribute or otherwise market, advertise, promote or exploit the Software. If it is judicially determined that any claim or controversy arising out of or relate to this Agreement or the Software cannot be settled by expedited binding arbitration as noted above, then you agree that any such claims or controversies shall be brought and maintained in the state courts located within the County of Marin, State of California or the federal courts of the Northern District of California, and you waive any claim that either such forum is inconvenient. The prevailing party in any action to enforce this Agreement shall be entitled to recover costs and expenses including, without limitation, reasonable attorney's fees.
